The Susan Thompson Show will be covering The World Peace Tour in Capetown in August 2006, an upcoming country's celebration of South Africa.

The upcoming event includes guest artists and dignitaries, sporting events and other cultural activities, producers, and other initiatives are in place regarding charity fundraising and women's empowerment. In addition President Mandela's 88th Birthday will be celebrated and this will be his last public appearance. Such significant events in South Africa are referred to as "Ubuntu" – that means "a 'Helpfulness' Spirit within a Community".

As Well As Introducing an Original Song, "Messages are Everywhere," Lyrics written by Susan Thompson and Music by Sonny E (from Earth Wind and Fire) and Phil Davis, The Susan Thompson Show and world-renowned artist James-Paul Brown will present a very special gift to Honor President Nelson Mandela's 88th Birthday and The Nelson Mandela Foundation that was founded in 2002. President Mandela's two major concerns: making a difference on the HIV/AIDS issue and improving the situation of children in rural schools.

Members of the delegation from South Africa who are hosting the event in their nation include Ms. Jeanette T. Ndhlovu, Council General for South Africa and promoter Mr. Joe Manyati. Look for the date July 29, 2006 as the birthday celebration begins with tribute to Nelson Mandela featuring numerous dignitaries, including Bishop Desmond Tutu and Former President F.W. de Klerk.
